DECLAMATION AND COMPOSITION DURING THE WHOLE COURSE.

Preparatory Department.

The special object of this Department is to prepare students for College. Careful regard, however, has been had in its organization to the claims of transient scholars, and others, who do not aim at a Collegiate education. This department furnishes instruction in the branches usually taught in academies, and affords peculiar advantages to students, from being under the supervision of the Faculty, aided by a Principal of long experience. It usually engages the student two years. The studies pursued are such as will qualify the applicant for a reputable admission into the College Department, whilst to those who do not desire to pursue a Collegiate course, it prepares them for business and mercantile engagements. Weekly exercises in composition and declamation throughout the entire course.

LOCATION.

Madison College is situated at Spring Creek, a thriving village thirteen miles northeast of Jackson, on the stage-road leading to Nashville. The surrounding neighborhood is proverbial for health, and influences of a high moral tone pervade the entire community. The College building now completed is of brick, three stories, and is acknowledged, generally, to be the most commodious in West Tennessee. In structure and convenience it has no superior in our State, standing on an eminence near the centre of the Campus. It is under the patronage of the West Tennessee Baptist Convention. The Faculty is now entire. The Professors are occupying their chairs. Hence we can now confidently appeal to the denomination at large for patronage.

TERMS OF ADMISSION.

For admission to the Freshman Class, candidates are examined in the Grammar of the English, Latin, and Greek languages, Geography, Arithmetic, Latin and Greek Readers, Cæsar's Commentaries, Greek Testament (Gospels and Acts).

For advanced standing in any class, the candidate is examined in all the studies completed by the class. No one will be admitted to the Freshman Class who is less than fifteen years old; nor to an advanced standing, without a proportional increase of age. With regard to this last requisition, the Faculty have a discretionary power when the applicant gives evidence of superior mental qualifications. The opening of the annual session is the time set apart for the examination of candidates. The Faculty would earnestly impress upon the minds of young men preparing for college the importance of entering at the commencement of the course—it being indispensable to the unity and thoroughness of a liberal education. Students desiring to matriculate must bring suitable testimonials of good moral character; and, if from another college, or an academy, must present a certificate of regular dismission from, and of good standing in, the institution which they have left. Students are permitted to pursue a partial course, upon the presentation of a written request to do so from the parent or guardian, provided that such applicant have as many exercises DAILY as are required of the regular classes. To such, upon leaving the Institution, a certificate of proficiency and good behavior will be granted; whilst those who shall have completed the course prescribed will be entitled to a diploma, conferring all the honors and degrees usual in similar institutions. Every applicant desiring membership must, within twenty-four hours after his arrival, report himself to the President, or, in his absence, to the Professor acting as President.

The following is the form of matriculation:—A student wishing to become a member of the College must first present his testimonials to the President, who, if satisfied with his evidences of good character, will admit him as a candidate to be examined for admission. If his examination be satisfactory, the student shall procure and read a copy of the laws of the College, which he shall then sign, pledging his honor as a gentleman strictly to observe so long as he may continue a member of the Institution. The President shall then give him a certificate of matriculation, which will entitle him to procure his tickets and proceed with the studies of his class.

DISMISSION.

Applications for dismission are to be made to the President, and must in all cases be accompanied with certificates of settlement from the Bursar. When this is done, and the applicant has in all respects conducted himself in an orderly and gentlemanly manner, the President is empowered with authority to grant an honorable discharge.

Any student leaving during term-time without a certificate subjects himself to the penalty of suspension, or to the infliction of such punishment as may be deemed advisable by the Faculty.

EXAMINATION.

An annual examination of the classes of the College proper, also of the Preparatory Department, will take place; at which time a Board of Visitors appointed by the Trustees will attend, whose duty it will be to report to the West Tennessee Baptist Convention at its annual session. The examinations of the College Department are of three kinds:

1. Daily examinations of the classes.
2. Written examinations for honors.
3. Public examinations.

1. Daily Examinations.—The daily examinations are searching and thorough, and the success of the student is noted by the Professor, according to a certain numerical rule, which is registered in a book kept for that purpose; this, to some extent, will determine the award of honors. Each Professor will carefully note the character of each recitation, punctuality of attendance, behavior, etc., and will report to the President at the meeting of the Faculty held weekly, which will be duly registered.

2. Written Examinations.—Each class is subjected to a written examination, which will commence as many days previous to the close of the term as the Faculty may deem necessary to complete the examinations. The Professor of the Department, with a committee appointed by the Board of Trustees, will conduct the examination. The Professor prepares a series of questions upon the studies which have been pursued during the term immediately preceding; and to each of these he affixes a numerical value, according to its relative difficulty. The list thus prepared is submitted to the committee for their approval. At the time appointed the class take their places in the recitation-room, provided with pens, ink, and paper, without any reference to books, and, in the presence of the Committee, the questions are then for the first time presented to the class. The students are then required to give their answers in writing, with their names subscribed, accompanied by a declaration from each that he has neither given nor received aid in the preparation of the papers presented. When, in the judgment of the committee, a sufficient time has been allowed for preparing the answers, the examination shall be closed and the papers handed in. The Professor shall then prepare a report, in which he shall mark numerically the value which he attaches to each answer, the highest number for any answer being that which had been fixed upon as the value of the corresponding question. From this report, together with the weekly reports of proficiency and conduct, the relative standing of all the students in each class will be determined in the following manner:

The students are arranged into FOUR separate divisions, according to the merit of their examinations. The numerical values attached to each of the questions are added together, with the maximum of the College. The values of the answers of each student, with the maximum attained, will be added together. If the latter number amount to three-fourths of the former, the student is ranked in the first division; if it be less than three-fourths and as much as one-half, in the second; if it be less than one-half and as much as one-fourth, in the third; if less than a fourth, in the fourth division.

The Faculty are authorized to confer on those who attain to the first division at this examination a certificate of distinction. If a student shall fall below twenty-five per cent. in his examination, he shall be required to review the study, and present himself for a second examination, before he be allowed to proceed with his class. A student who, without satisfactory excuse, shall absent himself from any examination, shall be entitled to no certificate—subjecting himself to such penalty as may be deemed expedient by the Faculty; and to such absentees, before advancing with their classes, will be required FIFTY PER CENT. of questions more than were propounded to their classes at the regular examination.

The public examinations are in their nature written and oral—chiefly the latter. They will take place at the close of the annual session, at which time all the classes will undergo a rigid and thorough examination in the studies pursued.

SOCIETIES.

The students have established among themselves two Societies—the Polymnian and Ciceronian. In their character they are literary—designed for the improvement of the members in public speaking, composition, and general information. Their meetings are held weekly for exercises in essays, orations, debates, and criticisms. For their accommodation two spacious halls are fitted up, supplied with a variety of periodicals—religious, literary, and political—weekly, monthly, and quarterly; together with the reprints of the European quarterlies. Both Societies have made some progress in collecting libraries. Donations of books from the friends of the Institution would be duly appreciated and acknowledged by the members.

APPARATUS.

The philosophical and chemical apparatus of the College is entirely new, having recently been obtained from Philadelphia. It was selected with considerable care, and is in all respects ample, yielding every facility for a full experimental demonstration of the subjects included in the course.

PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Prayers, with the reading of the Scriptures, are attended to daily in the College Chapel, at which all the students are required to be present. Every student is required to attend divine service on the Sabbath at some one of the churches in the village, it being left to his own choice, or the direction of his parent or guardian, with which one of the religious congregations of the place he shall attend. Every student on the Sabbath is also required to attend such religious exercises as may be approved by the Faculty, held in connection with the College.

DISCIPLINE.

The Faculty endeavor to accomplish all the purposes of government, by interesting in the cause of virtue and order the better sentiments of the judgment and the heart. If, however, a student is found incapable of appreciating such motives, his friends are advised to remove him from the Institution before he incurs public disgrace; or, in cases strictly demanding it, he will be promptly dismissed, to prevent his injurious example from corrupting the minds and misleading the conduct of others. No student will be retained in the Institution who is guilty of intemperance, profanity, or any species of immorality, or of any conduct which renders him an unfit associate for young gentlemen of correct habits.

EXPENSES.

Tuition in College, per session of ten months	$50 00
Preparatory Department, " " First class	16 00
" " " " Second class	35 00
Room rent in College, per session of ten months	10 00
Incidental tax per session, each	2 00
Fee for Graduation	5 00

No student is admitted to the College Department for a less time than the session, whilst in the Preparatory Department he has the privilege of entering for a term of five months. Payment of bills for tuition and incidentals is required in advance at the beginning of each term. No deduction made for absence, except in cases of protracted sickness. Board at the regular houses is to be had, inclusive of every thing but lights, at eight dollars per month. Students who room in the College buildings provide themselves with bed and furniture, etc. Such students are responsible for all damages in their respective rooms. It is earnestly requested that the parents and guardians of minors should place the funds necessary for their expenses in the hands of some member of the Faculty, or with the gentleman with whom they may board, in order to prevent the needless and injurious squandering of money, which is otherwise likely to occur. The above estimate includes the necessary expenses of a student excepting books—this is dependent altogether upon the studies pursued, and the progress that is made. The books can be had in the village upon reasonable terms. We cannot too urgently impress upon the minds of the patrons the necessity of aiding the Board of Trustees and Faculty in rendering this, what it purports to be, emphatically an institution of learning, devoid of that species of extravagance that not unfrequently characterizes many of our Southern institutions.

We aim to make this Institution a MODEL OF LEARNING AND ECONOMY; hence, by the assistance of the patrons in this particular, we can restrain that unlimited command of money constituting one of the most dangerous of the temptations to which a young man in college can be exposed.

DIVISION OF THE COLLEGE YEAR.

There is one session of forty weeks, beginning on the first Wednesday in September, with a vacation of ten days at Christmas. The session opens with prayer in the College Chapel at ten A. M., at which all are expected to be present. Recitations commence on the Monday following; the intervening time is devoted to the examination of students, the selection and arrangement of rooms, etc. In the assignment of rooms, no student will be entitled to a choice who is not present on the first day of the session. It is very important that students should enter at the beginning of the session, in order to avoid that embarrassment to themselves, and inconvenience to the classes, incident to a late entrance. No student is allowed to be absent during term-time without special leave from the President, and the applicant for such privilege, if a minor, must produce the written request from his parent or guardian.

HOURS OF STUDY.

The hours of study are from eight to twelve in the forenoon, from two to five in the afternoon, and from seven to ten in the evening. During these hours no student is permitted to be out of his room, except the time necessary for his recitations. Every student must have at least four recitations daily.

CANDIDATES FOR THE MINISTRY.

Students for the ministry must bring a certificate of license, or a letter of recommendation, from some Baptist Church. No student will be retained any longer than he evinces true piety, and encouraging improvement in his studies.

As tuition is GRATIS, a note of obligation to refund with interest the amount of tuition received shall be taken each session, which shall be of force only where the deportment shall disappoint, or where the ministry shall be abandoned or made subordinate to some secular pursuit.

Opportunities for preaching are frequent, and such as are in some measure qualified to instruct will find suitable occasions for the exercise of their gifts.

ABSTRACT OF COLLEGE LAWS.

Every student shall attend the daily devotional exercises in the College Chapel; also public worship on the Sabbath, and such other religious exercises as may be enjoined by the Faculty.

Every student shall regularly and punctually attend all his recitations. For every absence he shall be reported to the President, and promptly summoned to appear before him to answer for such delinquency.

All the students will be expected to behave orderly and gentlemanly at their respective boarding-houses, and no student will be permitted to change his boarding-house without the previous consent of the President.

No student will be allowed to be absent from his room after seven at night, but by permission of the President, except to attend church on the Sabbath night, prayer-meeting on Wednesday night, or the voluntary societies connected with the College. Any student leaving the grounds of the Institution without permission from the President, subjects himself to immediate suspension.

No student shall attend any exhibition of an immoral tendency, nor frequent any bar-room, or any place where liquor is sold.

No student shall be permitted to enter upon the grounds or premises of other persons, so as to molest or injure; nor to associate with idle or vicious company; nor to engage in any frolics of a noisy, disorderly, or immoral nature.

Damage done to any part of the College property shall be repaired by the offenders, if discovered.

No student shall carry about him deadly weapons; nor shall he take any part in a duel, on pain of immediate expulsion.

No student shall receive an honorable dismission from the College who does not regularly and punctually perform all his prescribed duties up to the date of his asking for it; and, if he is a minor, he must present to the President the written consent of his parent or guardian at the time of asking.

Every student shall be strictly moral in his deportment, respectful to the members of the Faculty, and strictly obedient to their authority in their respective departments. Students shall also be decorous and orderly in their intercourse with each other, as well as with all other persons.

Any student when required shall give evidence respecting the violation of the laws of the Institution; nor shall he be called in question by his fellow-students in relation to the testimony which he may thus give.

No student shall speak any piece at commencement, or on any public occasion, until it shall have been examined and approved by the President.

The students are prohibited from forming any secret societies, or entering into any combination by which the rules and regulations of the College may be thwarted.

No deduction from the regular College bills shall be made on account of absence, until the student shall have been regularly dismissed. The payment of the College bills for each term is invariably required in advance.

All lights are to be extinguished by ten P. M.
